

Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities

We've set up three open meetings to enable faculty members, staff members, and students to provide input to and be asked questions by the review team, as well as one opportunity to provide individual input. There is also a final "exit interview" at which members of the campus community may hear about the draft commendations and recommendations being made by the review team. You can read the self-study at: <http://academics.boisestate.edu/provost/self-study/>

The schedule is as follows:

- Open session for faculty: 2:45 to 3:45 p.m. Monday, Oct. 12, MP207
- Open session for staff: 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 13, LA107
- Open session for students: 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 12, ILC 203
- Time available for faculty, staff, or students to provide individual input: 1-2 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 13, ILC 212

- Reading of draft commendation and recommendations: 11-11:30 Wednesday, Oct. 14, Barnwell Room in the SUB.

All institutions that are accredited by the NWCCU undergo a comprehensive review every 10 years; Boise State's most recent review and reaffirmation of accredited status was in 1999.

Questions: Jim Munger; jmunger@boisestate.edu