This class seeks to help us better understand the historical context of the specific issues – “ripped from the headlines” – that we will cover in class, and we will identify historical lessons that can be applied to those specific issues in the here and now. Through these immediate exercises, we will develop the skills and tools necessary to (a) explore the historical context of and (b) identify historical lessons for other issues we face now and in the future.

Prof. Bob Reinhardt
Department of History
For more information email bobreinhardt@boisestate.edu