

HISTORY working

INTERNSHIPS IN HISTORY

Get Experience. Get Credit. Get Connected.

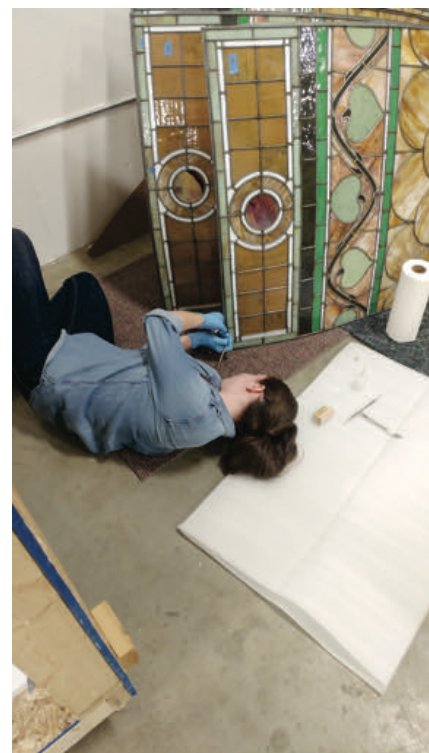

As a historian-in-training, you are developing valuable skills in research, analysis, and communication. Employers want those skills! Put them to use through an internship that counts towards your degree, adds experience to your resumé, and develops your professional network.

SOME CURRENT OPPORTUNITIES

- Valley Regional Transit: research transit history to help improve public transportation today and tomorrow
- The Peregrine Fund: manage a birds of prey library
- Idaho State Historical Society: variety of projects at the state museum, state archive, state historic preservation office, Old Penitentiary, and more!
- Forest Fire Lookout Association: research historic forest fire lookouts in Idaho
- Canyon County Historical Society: create museum exhibits
- Basque Museum and Cultural Center: curate exhibits
- Boise High School: build an archive
- Boise City Arts & History: manage public programming
- Many more -- and you can create your own!

REGISTRATION DETAILS & PROCESS

- 1-3 credits, 45 hours/credit
- Lower-, upper-, and graduate-level credits available
- Up to 12 internship credits may be applied to degree
- Easy application process
- Some internships pay; others may be eligible for a stipend

Boise State student Aimee Rollins restores stained glass as part of Idaho State Historical Society internship

$250 award for the Most Valuable Intern (MVI) enrolled for (unpaid) history internship credits (HIST-293, -493, or -590)

Ready to sign up? Contact Prof. Bob H. Reinhardt, Department of History Internship Coordinator, at bobreinhardt@boisestate.edu and schedule an appointment at <https://goo.gl/4fyZdj>

For more information on internships through the Department of History, visit <https://www.boisestate.edu/history/internship-program/>